Tenure-Track Faculty
The Department of Statistics seeks applications for a tenure-track professor in any field of statistics and probability as well as in any interdisciplinary areas where innovative and principled use of statistics and/or probability is of vital importance. The tenure-track professor will be responsible for teaching at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2022. A Doctorate in statistics or related discipline is required. The successful candidate should have strong doctoral records and demonstrated teaching and research experience or the promise of achieving such. We particularly encourage applications from historically underrepresented groups. Please submit application materials through the ARiE portal https://academicpositions.harvard.edu/postings/10480. Submission of a complete application by December 1, 2021 will ensure consideration.
