The Mathematics Department at the University of Maryland invites applications for two or more positions of tenure-track Assistant Professor, with an appointment beginning summer 2023. Statistics is an area of priority, but all areas of pure and applied Mathematics, as well as computational, theoretical, and applied Statistics will be considered. Applicants must present evidence of excellent accomplishments and promise in both research and teaching. Exceptional candidates will be considered for an appointment at a higher rank, including the Michael Brin Endowed Chair in Mathematics.

Qualified individuals are invited to submit a letter of application and a CV to http://mathjobs.org. Applicants for Assistant Professor positions should arrange for four letters of recommendation, one of which should address teaching. Candidates for Associate or Full Professor positions should only submit a cover letter and a CV. Such candidates may specify in their cover letter names of three references to be contacted at the appropriate time by the Department. For best consideration the application should be received by November 1, 2022. The University of Maryland Mathematics Department is committed to building a diverse faculty preeminent in our missions of research, teaching, and engagement in the community. Candidates who have experience working with a diverse range of faculty, staff, and students and who can contribute to a climate of inclusiveness are encouraged to identify their experiences in this area.
